The goal of The United States Bicycle Route System is to connect America through a network of numbered interstate bicycle routes.

The United States Bicycle Route System (USBRS) is a national network of numbered bicycle routes designed to connect communities and promote cycling as a healthy, fun, and environmentally friendly mode of transportation. The USBRS includes designated routes and undeveloped corridors, which are areas where routes may be developed in the future. The system is managed by Adventure Cycling, a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing cycling as an accessible, healthy, and enjoyable transportation option for all.
