

Snaps from the

MONTANA BICYCLE CELEBRATION

Bike rides and parties to celebrate the 40th anniversary of Adventure Cycling, the completion of the Bitterroot Trail, and cycling in Montana.

PHOTOS BY TOM ROBERTSON

*Above: Celebrating the completion of the Bitterroot Trail linking Lolo and Missoula.
Left: The festivities took all forms.
Below left: Adventure Cycling Executive Director Jim Sayer.
Below: Hundreds of cyclists enjoying "Sunday Streets" on the final day of the celebration.*

Left: Local dignitaries, including Adventure Cycling Membership Director Julie Huck (left) cut the ribbon on the new Bitterroot Trail.
Above: Lael Wilcox and Nicholas Carman discuss the Baja Divide, a route the pair have mapped along Mexico's Baja peninsula.
Below: Beloved Adventure Cyclist columnist Willie Weir puts on a show during Saturday night's dinner.

From top: A packed house at Missoula's Free Cycles bike shop for Nicholas Carman and Lael Wilcox. A crowd in front of Adventure Cycling headquarters prepares for a ride. Greg and June Siple. Friday night's capacity crowd at the University of Montana. One of the many Bikecentennial groups reuniting during the Montana Bicycle Celebration.

